A few days ago Jas Munroe received a very painful injury by the discharge of a loaded shotgun. In lifting the weapon out of a hay stack he took hold of it by the barrel not knowing it was loaded and in some manner was discharged inflicting a severe wound to his hand and lacerating the muscles of his arm. He is at present in the Red Deer hospital improving rapidly.

There will be several pieces of oats in the Olds district that will yield 100 bus to the acre and several pieces of wheat that will make 50 bus. Fall wheat is all in splendid condition.

J F Dodd 1 1/2 mi N. E. of Olds threshed 25 bus of wheat to the acre off one 40 acre field of fall wheat and 40 bus to the acre off a 20 acre field. He did not know his oat yield but if it threshed as it looked it will average 65 to 70 bus.

A very sad accident happened seven miles west of Olds last week. A little year and a half old child fell into a drilled well and was dead before it could be rescued. It is said that the well is nearly 200ft. deep but is only a six inch hole. N F Hagan and the Williams boy helped get the child out, who had only gone down four feet.

Oh yes, you fellows over in Uncle Sam's domain who are tied and can't get away, you can cry failure in Canada but we have the goods to show. The writer visited the David Plank farm one mile south of Olds, which by way was almost all in prairie and brush two years ago. Mr Plank had just finished threshing 260 acres of land. 10200 bushels of grain was the yield. His wheat averaged 25 bushels to the acre and his oats 60.

There is no chance to be lonesome when an Edison Phonograph is in the house. If you will slip on a record the Edison wont let you be lonesome. It keeps you cheerful. Keeps you laughing. It drives away the blues and that awful feeling of avoid which comes over so many of us. S Perrin, Agent.

On Thursday evening last Mr and Mrs Billington entertained a few friends at their home. The reception was given in honor of their wedding anniversary and a very pleasant evening was spent interspersed with recitations and musical selections after which a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess.

Laughing is healthy. All those who attended the entertainment in McCue's Hall on Wednesday night next will be sure of the best laugh of their lives. The I O O F have contracted with Charles Riley McCue, Americas Greatest Versatile Performer to do the job and all press reports say he can produce the goods. Admission 50 and 25.

For young or old suffering from these complaints it is the best medicine that can be procured.

SCOTLAND YARD.

Its Council of Sleuths Is a Thing
Dreaded by Evil-Doers.

In the great, rather grim, red-brick building which, like a medieval fortress, dominates the Thames, within a stone's throw of the Houses of Parliament, there is a large, bare, furnished room, which holds more secrets than any other in London, with the possible exception of the room of Cabinet mysteries. It is the nerve centre of England's great and complex detective system, which controls the currents radiating all the world over for the discovery of crime; and it is in this secret chamber that the mysterious Council of Seven hold their meetings to unravel the tangled skeins of tragedy.

If walls could speak, the walls of this room could unfold stories of romance, tragedy, and mystery such as would drive the writers of fiction to despair; for there is no form of crime which has not been dissected and laid bare there in all its complex and naked hideousness. But walls are dumb; and so are the members of this secret Council, who recognize that silence is one of their most powerful weapons.

This Council has not long been in existence; in fact, it is practically unknown to the outside world. It is only a short time since it occurred to the authorities of New Scotland Yard that, in place of casual conferences between detectives engaged in the solution of some problem of crime, it would be well to appoint a body of their cleverest detectives—men of acute and astute brains, with long experience of crime and criminals—to combine their efforts in solving the principal mysteries; and, as might be expected, the plan has worked admirably.

The greatest care has naturally been taken in choosing men for this responsible work. It was important that the Council should, as far as possible, cover the whole range of crime. The detective who has specialized in murder or burglary may know little of, say, coiners and begging-letter imposters; and thus the leading expert in each of the principal branches of crime was chosen—men who know practically all that is to be known about their own branch and its professors, and whose names even are a terror to evil-doers the whole world over.

But let us see how this Council works. Suppose that a mysterious murder has taken place in London. Within a few minutes after it has been reported to the nearest police station the detective-inspector and his assistants are on the spot making investigations. Meanwhile the news has been flashed to New Scotland Yard; and almost before the local men have well commenced their inquiries a member of the Council—the man whose special province it is—appears on the scene and takes charge of the operations.

If the problem is a fairly simple one, as it often is, and the murderer is speedily run to earth, the services of the Council are naturally not required. But if there is no sufficient clue to the assassin, or he has made his escape good, the Council is at once summoned, and takes the case in hand.

All the available evidence is placed before it and thoroughly sifted, deductions are made, a plan of campaign is drawn up, and the whole of the complicated and far-reaching machinery of Scotland Yard is set to work under the collective guidance of the cleverest detective brains in England. How energetically and thoroughly the Council does its work has been shown in the recent Crippen case, in which a closely-meshed net was in a few days thrown round the world for the capture of the criminal.

Schools for Baroda.

A small, dark man, accompanied by two beautiful women in eastern dress and with a train of olive-skinned dependents, landed in England the other day. No one who saw him and or who watched his pleasant, modest demeanor on board during the voyage from America would have guessed that he was the ruler over 2,000,000 people, the richest, one of the most enlightened, and one of the most powerful of the princes of the native states of India. The Gaekwar of Baroda is a great admirer of English institutions. He has been especially struck with the quiet, friendly charm of its country life. "One object of my journey," he said, "is to add to my knowledge of educational methods and ideals. Baroda is the only state in India where schools are free and compulsory. I established them because I am sure that it is useless to expect any real progress among the Indian people until they are less ignorant."

Where Is Tecumseh's Grave?

Considerable interest has been added to the discussion over the whereabouts of the grave of the great Indian chief Tecumseh, by the story which comes from an old British soldier now living in England, to the effect that Tecumseh was buried in the bottom of McGregor's Creek, near Chatham. Indians were often known to bury their fallen braves in water to keep them from being scalped by their enemies.

It is said that Tecumseh's body has never been taken up, so that the stories that he was buried at Moravian town, Wallaceburg, or Stannan Island cannot be true. The old soldier who is responsible for the story was a long time member of the old Twenty-fourth Regiment of Chatham. An effort is now being made to get into communication with him.

His Reverence at the Barber's
"Drink," said the irrepressible joker, beckoning to the waiter, "is a great evil. Both my father confessor and my barber agree on that."

"Father Ambrose went in the other day to get a shave. He observed that the barber was suffering from a recent night out, but decided to take a chance. In a few moments the barber's razor had nicked the father's cheek."

"There, Pat, you have cut me," said the priest, as he raised his hand and caressed the wound.

"Yes, y'r rivrance," answered the barber.

"That shows you," continued the priest, in a tone of censure, "what the use of liquor will do."

"Yes, y'r rivrance," replied the barber, humbly; "it makes the skin tender."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Bad Condition of Liver and Stomach

Chronic indigestion and bowel trouble which is overcome quickly by Dr. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS

To the person with liver and stomach troubles everything looks blue and life is scarcely worth living.

How different he feels even after the first dose of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. There is no treatment obtainable which so quickly and thoroughly awakens sluggish liver and sets the bowels in healthful and regular action.

There is no question that this condition is the real cause of trouble and that any medicine which falls short of regulating these organs can at most only afford temporary relief.

What tired, languid feelings after meals, when the process of digestion is going on. What annoyance from belching wind, pressure of gas on the heart and consequent smothering sensations. What a miserable depressing feeling comes over mind and body.

And yet how easy it is to change all this by use of this medicine of well-known and decidedly remarkable value.

You are not making any experiment when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for liver, stomach and bowel disorders. You can be sure before you use them that the results will be satisfactory. You will not wonder then why some people are so enthusiastic when they talk about Dr. Chase's medicines.

Mrs. James Lawrence, West L'Ardoise, C. B., writes: "I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's medicines and believe that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills saved my life. I was a great sufferer from chronic dyspepsia and entirely unable to do anything. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me and I have recommended them to many people."

"My husband was cured of liver complaint by using these pills and we would not think of being without them in the house."

Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Dr. Chase's Recipes.

Do You Realize the Advantages of Concrete?

THE rising price of lumber has compelled the farmer to look for a suitable substitute.

Concrete, because of its cheapness, durability and the readiness with which it can be used for every farm purpose, has proven itself to be cheaper than lumber and far more durable. Our Free Book—shows the farmer how he can do his own work without the aid of skilled mechanics. It demonstrates the economy of Concrete construction as compared with lumber, brick or stone.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

Suggests Improvement

To the Editor:—
Ask for a little space in which to express a few views regarding Bowden Fall Fair. Some seem to run it too much their own way and therefore show a great deal of oneness. I think it would be an improvement to have neutral people for all judges, there would be more satisfaction felt and probably they would know one kind of work from another. I think too, if they would arrange to have things hung out so that people could see what they look like, it would show much better management and taste of those in charge, also satisfy the public better than having them hung up on the poles of the tent like a few dish towels, as some of the prettiest exhibits were.

Two minutes later a swarm of armed men forsook the mock charity ball and sallied forth to engage in realities. Firing was soon heard at the western gate, half a mile away. Thither the eager pursuers rushed. The wide ray from the searchlight swung down upon this gate and revealed the forms of struggling men.

The prisoners had fallen suddenly upon the two Greeks who guarded the western gate, surprising them cleverly. Both fell under the clubbed guns of their adversaries.

Chase and Selim were not more than a hundred yards away when the Greeks went down. The blinding glare of the searchlight aided the pursuers, who kept outside its radius. The fugitives, bewildered, confused by the bright glare in which they found themselves, faced the light boldly, five of them kneeling with guns raised to protect their two companions who started across the narrow strip, which separated them from the massive gate. Selim gave a shout and stopped suddenly, throwing his rifle to his shoulder.

"They have the keys!" he cried. "Shoot!"

His rifle cracked a second later, and one of the two men leaped into the air and fell like a log. Chase understood the necessity for quick work and fired an instant later. The second man fell in a heap thirty feet from the gate. His companions returned the fire at random in the direction from which the well aimed shots had come.

"Under cover!" shouted Chase. He and Selim dropped into the shrubbery in time to escape a withering fire from outside the gates. The searchlight revealed a compact mass of men beyond the walls. It was then that the insiders realized how near they had come to being surprised and destroyed. A minute more, and the gates would have been opened to this merciless horde.

The prisoners, finding themselves trapped, threw themselves upon the ground and shrieked for mercy. Lord Deppingham and the others came up and, scattering well, began to fire at the mass outside the wall. The islanders were at a disadvantage. They could not locate the opposing marksmen on account of the blinding light in their faces. It was but a moment before they were scampering off into the dark wood, shrieking with rage.

The five fugitives were compelled to carry their fallen comrades and the two Greeks from the open space in front of the gates to a point where it was safe for the defenders to approach them without coming in line with a possible volley from the forest.

A small force was left to guard the gate. The remainder returned as quickly as possible to the chateau.

Immediately upon the return to the chateau an inspection of the dungeons was made, prior to an examination of the servants in the effort to apprehend the traitor.

The three men who went down into the damp, chill regions below ground soon returned with set, pale faces. There had been no traitor!

The man whose duty it was to guard the prisoners was found lying inside the big cell, his throat cut from ear to ear, stone dead! He had been seized from within as he came to the grating in response to a call. While certain fingers choked him into silence, others held his hands, and still others wrenched the keys from his sash. After that it was easy. Deppingham, Chase and Selim looked at each other in horror, and, strange as it may seem, relief.

Death was there; but, after all, death is no traitor.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE JOY OF TEMPTATION.

THERE was but little sleep in the chateau that night. The charity ball was forgotten or, if recalled at all, only in connection with the thought of what it came so near to costing its promoters.

No further disturbances occurred. A strict watch was preserved; the picturesque drawbridge was lifted, and there were lights on the terrace and galleries; men slept within easy reach of their weapons. The siege had begun in earnest. Men had been slain, and their blood was crying out for vengeance; the voice of justice was lost in the clamorings of rage.

The princess was quite serene. She lightly announced that the present state of affairs was no worse than that which she was accustomed to at home. The court of Rapp-Thorberg was ever in a state of unrest, despite its outward suggestion of security. Outbreaks were common among the masses. Somehow they were suppressed before they grew large enough to be noticed by the wide world.

"We invariably come out on top," she philosophized, "and so shall we here. At home we always eat, drink and make merry, for tomorrow never comes."

Soon after breakfast was over Chase announced his intention to visit each of the gates in turn. The princess strolled with him as far as the bridge at the foot of the terrace. They stopped in the shade of a clump of trees that hung upon the edge of the stream. As they were gravely discussing the events of the night Neenah came up to them from beyond the bridge. She salaamed gracefully to the "sahib." She had no eyes for royalty.

"Excellency," she began breathlessly. "It is Selim who would have private speech with the most gracious sahib. It is to be quick, excellency. Selim is under the ground, excellency."

"In the cellars?"

"Yes, excellency. It is so dark there that one cannot see, but Neenah will lead you. Selim has sent me. But come now!"

Chase felt his ears burn when he turned to find a delicate, significant smile on Neenah's lips. "Don't let me detain you," she said, ever so politely.

"Wait, please!" he exclaimed. "Is Selim hurt?" he demanded of Neenah, who shook her head vigorously.

"Then there is no reason why you should not accompany us, princess."

"I am not at all necessary to the undertaking," she said coldly, turning to leave him.

"Selim has found fuses and gunpowder laid in the cellars, excellency—in the secret vaults," began Neenah eagerly, divining the cause of the white lady's hesitation.

This astounding piece of news swept away the feeble barrier Neenah would have erected in her pique. She consented to accompany Chase into the cellars, a spirit of adventure overcoming certain scruples which might have restrained her under other conditions.

Neenah led them through the wine cellars and down into the vaults beyond the dungeons. The princess clutched Chase's hand tightly as they stole through the bleak, chill corridor. She found herself wondering if the girl was to be trusted. What if she were leading them into a trap? She would have whispered her fears into Chase's ear had not a sharp "Sh!" come from the girl who was leading. Neenah felt a queer little throb of hatred for the girl—she could not explain it.

The dungeon was off to the right. They could hear the insistent murmur of voices, with now and then a laugh from the distant cells. The guard could be heard scoffing at his charges. With a caution that seemed wholly absurd to the two white people, Neenah guided them through the maze of narrow passages, dark as Erebus and chill as the grave. Chase checked a hysterical impulse to laugh aloud at the proceedings. It was like playing at a children's game.

He was walking between the two women, Neenah ahead, Geneva behind. Each clasped one of his hands. Suddenly he found himself experiencing an overpowering desire to exert the strength of his arm to draw the princess close—close to his insistent body. The touch of her flesh, the clutch of her cold, little hand, filled him with the most exquisite sense of possession. The magnetism of life charged from one to the other, striking fire to the blood. He was forgetting Neenah, forgetting himself, thinking only of the opportunity and its fascination. In another instant he would have drawn her hand to his lips. Neenah came to a standstill and uttered a warning whisper. Chase recovered himself with a mighty start, a chill as of one avoiding an unseen peril sweeping over him. Geneva heard the sharp, painful intake of his breath and felt the sudden relaxation of his fingers. She was not puzzled. She, too, had felt the magic of the touch, and her blood was surging red. She knew then that she had been clasping his hand with a fervor that was as unmistakable as it was shameless.

Neenah may have felt the magnetic current that coursed through these surcharged creatures. She was smiling mysteriously to herself.

"Wait here," she whispered to Chase, ever so softly. She released his hand and moved off in the blackness of the passage. "I will bring Selim," came back to them.

"Oh!" fell faintly, tremulously, from Geneva's lips. It was a trap, after all! But it was not the trap laid by a traitor. She fell all aquiver. Her heart fluttered violently; her breath came quickly. Alone with him, and their blood leaping to the touch that thrilled!

Chase could no more have restrained the hand that went out suddenly in quest of hers than he could have checked his own heart throb. A wave of exquisite joy swept over him—the joy of a temptation that knew no fear, no conscience. He found her cold little hand and clasped it in tense fingers—fingers that throbbed with the call to passion. He drew her close; their bodies touched and sweetly trembled.

"Are you afraid?" he whispered in tones he had never heard before.

"Yes," she murmured convulsively—"of you! Please, please, don't!" At the same time she tightened her clutch upon his hand and crept closer to him, governed by an unconquerable craving. Chase had the sensation of smothering. He could not believe the senses which told him that she was responding to his appeal.

"Geneva!" he murmured, almost gasped, in his delirium. His arms went about her slender figure suddenly, and she was strained to his breast, locked to him with bonds that seemed unbreakable. Her face was lifted to his. The blackness of the passage was impenetrable, but love was the guide. He found her lips in one wild, glorious kiss.

A door creaked sharply. He released her. Their quivering arms fell away. They drew ever so slightly apart, still under the control of the influence which had held them for that brief moment. She was trembling violently. A soft, wailing sigh as of pain came from her lips.

Then the glimmer of a light came to them through the half open door at the end of the passage. They gazed at it without comprehension, dumb in their sudden weakness. A shadowy figure came out through the door, and Selim's voice, low and tense, called to them.

"Forgive me," he murmured.

"It is too late," she replied. Then his hand sought hers again, and, dizzy with emotion, he led her up to the open door. As they passed into the huge, dimly lighted chamber he turned to look into her face. She met his gaze, and there were tears in her eyes. Selim was ahead of them. She shook her head sadly, and he understood.

"Can we ever forget?" she murmured plaintively.

"Never!" he whispered.

"Then we shall always regret—always regret!" she said, withdrawing her hand. "It was the beginning and the end."

"Not the end, dearest one—if we are always to regret," he interposed eagerly. "But why the end? You do love me! I know it! And I worship you—oh, you don't know how I worship you, Geneva! I!"

"Fush! We were fools! Don't, please! I do not love you. I was carried away by— Oh, can't you understand? Remember what I am! You knew and yet you have degraded me in my own eyes. Is my own self-respect nothing? You will laugh and you may boast after I am married to—"

"Geneva!" he protested as if in great pain.

Girl Clings to Burglar.

By the plucky act of a slim little dairy girl a bulky burglar was brought to justice in a Glasgow suburb lately. The shopgirl of a dairy had left the shop unattended for a few minutes, and when she came back was surprised to see a man inside the counter. He at once attempted to pass out, but she pluckily intercepted and clung on to the man, though he dragged her a considerable distance along the street. Her cries attracted the attention of two constables, who promptly arrested the suspect, and found the contents of the dairy till in his possession.

Signalman Dead.

A tragic affair happened recently at Greenlaw Railway station, on the Berwickshire branch line of the N. B. Railway. A passenger train could proceed no further owing to the signals being against it, and on inquiry the signalman, named William Lauder, was found lying dead at his post in his cabin.

THE FUTURE OF AUSTRALIA.

Central Part of the Great Island Is Practically Useless.

Anyone who looks at the map of Australia must be struck by the uncharted desolation of the great central area of the island continent. The cities and the railroads constitute the merest marginal fringe of evidence of civilization, and the rivers which would offer possibilities of irrigation are conspicuous by absence. Through the middle of the map, across the white region marked "unexplored," is a dotted line representing the course of the telegraph wires, that are the sole links of the northern and southern coasts. The country has never been crossed betwixt east and west.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, Prof. J. W. Gregory maintained that no system of irrigation will ever be possible in the practically rainless interior of Australia, except along the banks of the Darling and Murray Rivers. There are flowing wells in Queensland and New South Wales, but their supply is inconstant and inadequate. But in western Australia the discovery of a wide-spread subterranean deposit of fresh water makes it possible to prophesy with reason a great agricultural and pastoral future for that region.

In Central Australia there will probably never be any considerable settlement, except in the limited area of the mining fields. Recently discovered gold fields in the centre of the continent are proving, as throughout the course of human history, a potent lure to bring the restless and feverish prospectors from the cities of the coast. As Prof. Gregory pointed out, all the centres of population hitherto have been on the coast, and there is no inland city with more than 50,000 inhabitants. It was thought that the little town of Bourke, on the Darling River, would prove to be the Chicago of Australia, but the population, numbering 2,600 in 1905, continues to dwindle.

The artesian well may yet prove to be the salvation of interior Australia. Borings on the route of the proposed transcontinental railway in western Australia have shown the presence of water 340 miles from Kalgoorlie, and Sir John Forrest is confident of finding a subterranean supply of water which may result in reclaiming to the use of civilized mankind some 30,000,000 acres of what has hitherto been regarded as one of the irredeemable waste places of the earth.

Queen's Fur Collection.

Queen Mary possesses one of the most wonderful collections of furs in the world, and she is very partial to these. Included in Her Majesty's collection is a magnificent set of Russian sables which were presented to her a few years ago upon the occasion of her birthday by the Tsar and Tsarina. She is often chafed by members of her family regarding her preference for furs and fur-trimmed garments, and a short time ago his present Majesty was asked what he thought she would wear upon the occasion of a yachting trip in the Solent. "Well, I am not quite sure," he replied, with a humorous twinkle in his eye, "but I rather imagine it will be something with fur on it." Strangely enough, despite this partiality for fur, Her Majesty, does not care for ermine, and some time ago she suggested that the robes of peers and peeresses would look far more imposing if they were trimmed with dark fur. The motor-coat that the Queen usually wears is a marvellous specimen of the furriers' art, and is made up of some thousands of tails, each so perfectly matched and joined that it looks like one large piece of fur even when subjected to the closest scrutiny. Queen Mary's furs are all carefully stored at Marlborough House in such fashion that she can obtain any set she requires at a moment's notice.

Bishop's Hat Trick.

Presiding the other day at the annual meeting at Basingstoke of the Diocesan Home of Rescue Work, the Bishop of Winchester made an urgent appeal for funds to wipe off the remaining debt of $150 on the building fund of the warden's house. At the close of the meeting the bishop planted his "shovel" hat down on the table with a bang, remarking, "There's my hat and there's a five pound note; now then, we must get rid of this debt." The hat was accordingly passed round, and produced over $250 in cash and promises, so that the debt was cleared off with $100 to spare. "That," said the bishop, "is doing the hat-trick."

Eddystone Lighthouse.

The first Eddystone lighthouse was finished in 1699 and destroyed in the dreadful storm of Nov. 27, 1703. A wooden one by Rudyerd was then built by order of Parliament, which was burnt Dec. 4, 1755. Another wooden structure was burnt later, which was replaced by stone. The foundation of this one giving way, a new structure was designed, the foundation stones of which were laid in 1879. The corner-stone was placed in 1881, and the first light flashed out over the waters May 15, 1882.

Games on the Roof.

The choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, who live in their school, which is shut in at the back of great drapery warehouses between St. Paul's Churchyard and Queen Victoria street, possess no playing fields, and are obliged to enjoy their games on the school roof. By an ingenious arrangement of specially-constructed net the boys here play cricket, football, and hockey.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON I.—FOURTH QUARTER,
FOR OCT. 2, 1910.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxv, 1-13,
Memory Verses, 10-12—Golden
Text, Luke xii, 40—Commentary
Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

We have no lesson assigned from chapter xxiii, but let us not fail to note the summing up of the religion of the Pharisees as seen and judged by the Judge of all the earth. "All their works they do for to be seen of man." Our lives are lived, from our standpoint, either before people for their approval or before God for His approval only. The latter is the only true way to live, according to II Tim. ii, 15, but it is to be feared that many a preacher has more regard for the approval of his congregation than for the approval of God. Let such consider the eight woes of this chapter, and the time to which the "till" or "until" of verse 39 points, along with Luke xxi, 24, and Rom. xi, 25.

We shall have one study some weeks later in the latter part of chapter xxiv, but nothing in the first thirty-one verses of this far-reaching and all important Olivet discourse. Yet we cannot understand the lesson of today except in the light of the great event of verses 30, 31, the coming of the Son of man in glory at the close of the great tribulation, for it is then that affairs on earth shall be as in the days of Noah. Iniquity cannot come to a head while the church is on earth (II Thess. ii, 7, 8), but the Holy Spirit, in His official capacity of gathering out the church, having been taken with the church at her rapture to meet her Lord, then the evil trinity of devil, beast and false prophet do their utmost to overthrow the Lamb of God and to destroy His people Israel (Dan. xii, 1, 3; Rev. xvii, 14), who shall never cease from the earth (Matt. xxiv, 34; Jer. xxxi, 35, 37), but at the coming of Christ in glory shall receive Him as their Messiah and become thus a righteous nation to bless all nations (Isa. ix, 1-3, 19-21).

If the "then" of the first verse of our lesson could refer to the coming of Christ with His saints, the ten virgins could be interpreted only of Israel, and there is something in favor of this in the Vulgate and Syriac MSS., which give the last clause of verse 1, as "went forth to meet the bridegroom and the bride." But without attempting to settle the interpretation of it, there is an abundance of truth which all may profit by. There are, and there will be till He comes, some wise and some foolish, all of them professors, but only some possessors. The wheat and tares will grow together till the harvest, which is the end of the age. Compare the wise and foolish of chapter vii, 21-27, and note that He will have to say to some very loud professors, "I never knew you; depart from me." It is written, "He that winneth souls is wise," and again, "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament" (Prov. xi, 30; Dan. xii, 3). By contrast we can imagine how the foolish are. See also in Luke xii, 20, 21, that all are foolish who lay up treasure on earth and are not rich toward God. When we consider that there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts iv, 12), and that it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul (Lev. xvii, 11), how foolish and blinded by the devil must all those be who, turning their backs upon the only way of righteousness as Cain did, think to obtain entrance to the kingdom by their own good works, by character, by connection with a so-called church or even by baptism of the Lord's supper. Only those are wise who can truly say, "Thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by Thy blood," and who "overcome by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony, not loving their lives unto the death" (Rev. v, 9; xii, 11). A lamp is no manner of use, except perhaps to be admired, without oil. Oil is a symbol of the Holy Spirit, and in Rom. viii, 9, we read that "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of His." That would seem to settle the real standing of the foolish virgins (C. I. S.). That all, both wise and foolish, slumbered and slept, would seem to indicate that the wise as well as the foolish were indifferent to the great event, the coming of the Lord. If we judge by the few preachers who seem to know or care anything about His coming and therefore the consequent blindness of believers generally in this matter, it is evident that with few exceptions comparatively all are asleep. But there is a sleep that is lawful, and if we are right with God it will not matter if as to our bodies we are awake or asleep when Jesus comes, for we can say "I sleep, but my heart waketh" (Song v, 2). The wise virgins were ready and they went in with Him to the marriage, and the door was shut (verse 10).

There is no readiness apart from that which He provides. His own righteousness, which He gives freely to all who receive Him. Then we can always say, "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God, for He hath clothed me with the garments of salvation. He hath covered me with the robe of righteousness" (Isa. lxi, 10). Thus accepted in the Beloved, in whom we have redemption through His blood, we are always ready for His call.

Record Price for Mackerel

Halifax.—Fresh mackerel sold here recently at forty cents each, the highest price ever paid. Thirty years ago they were quoted at fifty cents per dozen.

H.B. LAND IS PROMISING

POSSESSES MINERAL AND AGRICULTURAL WEALTH

Prof. Brock, Just Returned from Hudson Bay Country, Says there are Vast Areas of Land Suitable for Farming—There is an Abundance of Water Suitable for Power and Other Purposes.

Ottawa.—That the country through which the new Hudson Bay railway will run possesses agricultural and mineral possibilities that need only railway facilities to open them up was the substance of an interview given by Prof. R. W. Brock, director of the geological survey, who has just returned from a trip on which he accompanied Earl Grey through the north country.

"While I had not time to make a thorough examination of any kind," said Prof. Brock, "I noticed one promising looking belt on the Echinamish river, up which we went. It was about 130 miles long. There has of course been no prospecting in this district owing to the difficulties in transportation. The railway, however, will supply a splendid base for this work, and several of the inlets afford great opportunities for it.

As regards agriculture, the country, of course, does not offer such advantages as does the prairie, still there is a lot of land that could be used for farming north of Lake Winnipeg particularly. It would, however, need experimental work to decide this question fully.

"There is any amount of water power available all through the country that is capable of development, the Nelson river itself being one of the biggest in the world in this respect."

"What do you think of the proposed route of the Hudson Bay railway? Is the country a hard one for railroad-ing?" was asked.

"Our route," said Prof. Brock, "lay somewhat south of the location of the road, but I do not think the district offers many difficulties for railway work. There are muskegs, of course, but these are to be found in northern Ontario where the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario operates, and on the Transcontinental, too."

Prof. Brock is the only member of Earl Grey's party so far returned to Ottawa. He is preparing a report on the geological features of the country through which he passed, for a survey.

ASK DAMAGES FROM G. T. P.

Eighty-Five Writs Have Been Issued in the Supreme and District Courts for Fire Losses.

Edmonton.—Fifty-two writs have been issued in the district court against the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company and 33 writs in the supreme court against the same company demanding damages for loss by fire a year ago when the big prairie fire swept the country in the neighborhood of Viking on the line of the G. T. P.

These writs were taken out by 85 settlers who lost a considerable amount of goods through the fire, damage to surface soil, growing timber, fencing, cord wood, hay and straw.

It is claimed that the company had not sufficient fire guards along the right-of-way, and that the servants of the company started the fire by not taking care while they kindled a fire during the dry season, thereby allowing it to get away from them.

The fire started on the 23rd of Sept. of last year and raged for several days between Viking and Vegreville, doing a large amount of damage and resulting in the death of one child.

The writs do not claim damages for any very large amounts, the largest being two for the sum of $2,000, the majority being for sums of $100 and $500.

PEAT BURNS WELL

Good Results Obtained at the Government Plant at Alfred, Ontario

Ottawa.—At the exhibition held here recently the Dominion department of mines made a successful demonstration of peat fuel from the government plant at Alfred, Ont. Several hundred tons of this fuel are being brought to Ottawa and sold at $3.25 per ton delivered, which makes it equivalent to hard coal at less than $6.00 per ton. The burning qualities of the peat manufactured at Alfred were a surprise to all who were not before acquainted with them. The Canadian Peat society, which has been lately formed to advance the peat industry in Canada, will hold a meeting in Ottawa about the first week of December to discuss practical questions involved in putting the manufacture of the new fuel on a commercial basis throughout Canada wherever workable bogs are found.

Want to Rent H. B. Railway

Ottawa.—It is stated that at an interview with the minister of railways recently, heads of the C.N.R. broached the proposition that the C.N.R. should rent the Hudson Bay railway from the government on basis of cost of construction. However, as it will be two or three years at the earliest before the road is finished, it is understood that Hon. Graham is in no hurry to commit himself to such or any policy regarding the operation of the road yet.

READY-MADE FARMS COMPLETED

Have Been Officially Inspected by Mr. Dennis and Ready to Receive Settlers

Calgary.—The ready-made farms which are being prepared for next spring at Sedgewick, Central Alberta, under Sir Thos. Shaughnessy's colonization scheme for British settlers, are now practically completed, and have been officially inspected by J. S. Dennis, assistant to the vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway, accompanied by J. M. Gibbon, representing the London office of that company. That new buildings are substantially erected according to artistic designs.

At the agricultural fair held at Sedgewick, the excellence of the crops produced in the district was demonstrated by the quality of the exhibits, winter wheat going 47 bushels and oats 62. Government Inspector Craig pronounced the exhibits equal to any yet inspected by him at similar exhibitions, held elsewhere this season. The fifty ready-made farms of 160 to 320 acres respectively, for which British farmers will be brought out in the early spring, and the prospect of their speedy colonization, have raised the price of other farms in that vicinity fully twenty-five per cent.

Mr. Gibbon has also visited the Irricana colony of ready-made farms which were settled this spring and reports that settlers there are thoroughly satisfied with their new homes and highly optimistic as to the future. They employ co-operative methods, and have adapted themselves to Canadian conditions with the happiest results.

TO EXPAND TRADE RELATIONS

Want Australian Stationed at Vancouver to Develop Commerce Between Canada and Australia

Melbourne, Aus.—With the effort to expand the trade relations between Australia and Canada being given close attention by W. H. Ross, the trade commissioner for Canada in Victoria, Southern Australia and Tasmania, Mr. Ross has been interviewing the minister of customs with the object of inducing him to appoint an Australian stationed at Vancouver whose business would be to develop the commerce generally between the two countries. Mr. Tudor, the Australian to Vancouver to undertake the duties but hoped to see the way clear to induce the cabinet to appoint a commercial man, resident of Vancouver, to represent the commonwealth. The matter will be placed before the ministers for decision.

It is considered unlikely that the Victorian government will go outside its own state to find a successor to Mr. Tait, who resigned the post of chairman of the state railway commission. In some circles it is taken for granted that Fitzpatrick, a colleague of Tait's, will secure the vacant position. Fitzpatrick has had a remarkable career. He entered the railway service in the capacity of port's messenger and has risen by native ability to the place he at present holds.

POINT GREY UNIVERSITY SITE

Beautiful Seaside Resort Chosen by British Columbia University Commission

Victoria, B. C.—The report of the university commission appointed during the summer to select the site of the future British Columbia University was made public, having been received only a week ago. The commission has decided upon Point Grey, a seaside resort of Vancouver, as the site. The commissioners were R. C. Weldon, G. Dauth, G. C. Jones, O. D. Skelton and Walter C. Murray, all Eastern educationalists.

The university site commission is strongly of the opinion that the university should not be placed on a site which may in time be completely surrounded by a city, and respectfully suggest that not less than 250 acres be set apart for the university campus, and 700 acres for experimental purposes in agriculture and forestry. This is exclusive of a forest reserve for forestry operations on a large scale.

Already two million acres have been set apart by the provincial government as an endowment fund for the university.

PREDICTS ROUT OF OLD GUARD

Claims He Will Have One Hundred Majority at Republican Convention in Saratoga

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—The utter rout of the "Old Guard" by Theodore Roosevelt, at the Republican state convention in Saratoga, was predicted by Colonel Roosevelt himself. At the conclusion of a long conference with half a dozen of the lieutenants, Colonel Roosevelt said: "I think I may be reasonably safe in saying that we shall have one hundred majority."

"In my opinion," said he, "the Saratoga convention will adopt a resolution strongly endorsing the administration of President Taft. In accordance with the president's expressed wish, no mention will be made of a renomination in 1912."

Examination for Naval Cadets

Ottawa.—Notice appears in the Canada Gazette that a general competitive examination for cadets for the naval service of Canada will be held on November 9 at various points in Canada, including Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Nelson, Vancouver and Victoria.

DEALING WITH CANADA

INTERNATIONAL TRADE RELATIONS WITH U. S.

President Taft is Anxious to Have Negotiations for a Reciprocity Treaty Opened at Once—Has Secured Consent of Ambassador Bryce for Direct Communication Between United States and the Dominion.

Beverly, Mass.—Formal steps looking to the opening of negotiations for a reciprocity treaty with Canada have been taken by President Taft, who has secured the consent of the British ambassador, Rt. Hon. J. Bryce, for direct communications between the United States and the Dominion government.

The announcement of this fact was made following the publication of the president's intention to open negotiations early in October. It is the president's hope now that the latter part of October will find the negotiations in full swing.

Important developments may grow out of the affair, having a direct bearing upon the general tariff of the United States, particularly if the treaty finally negotiated should grant to Canadian exports to the United States a lower rate of duty than is provided for in the Payne-Aldrich law.

This is one of the problems the president will be called upon to deal with. Should a reciprocity treaty finally be agreed upon to make these concessions to Canada, the effect of its ratification by the senate would seemingly be to repeal the Payne-Aldrich law insofar as it affects Canada.

The president's view of this is that a treaty is the law of the land, and as treaty-making power may cover all subjects, there is no reason why it may not include the tariff.

CATTLE BEING KEPT IN SOUTH

The Recent Rains Have Assured Stock Raisers of Plenty of Green Food

Calgary.—That the desire of the cattlemen of the southern part of the province to ship their cattle northward in view of the better and cheaper facilities has abated, owing to the recent rains in this part of the province, is the statement of Live Stock Commissioner Stevens, of Edmonton.

"The southern stockmen now feel that they have sufficient feed to sustain the cattle which they will have on their hands during the winter," said Mr. Stevens, "and have accordingly ceased sending them north. The recent rains have brought the grass along in fine style, and it is also noticeable now that the purchase of southern cattle by the northern stockmen has fallen off considerably. A few weeks ago cattle could have been bought rather cheaply, but with the feed prospects looking up again in the south, the price has gone up again and the demand has gone down."

The rain is also likely to affect the price of hay that was beginning to soar some time ago, as the rise in price was due to the feeling that feed would be very scarce this winter.

REVISING PLANS

Reason For the Delay in the Building of Ships For Canadian Navy

Ottawa.—The delay in letting the contracts for the construction of the vessels for the Canadian navy is due to the fact that the admiralty is revising plans for the vessels of the Bristol and River torpedo boat destroyer classes, and until the revision is completed is not ready to allow them to be viewed. Naturally the admiralty maintains the greatest secrecy as to the plans of war vessels, and representatives of the firms desiring to tender are sworn to secrecy before they view them. As soon as the admiralty is prepared to allow the plans to be viewed there will be progress in the direction of naval construction but not before.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PROPHECY

Former Chancellor of the Exchequer Says We Have Done as Predicted

Birmingham, Eng.—The Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain, former chancellor of the exchequer, declared in a speech here that what he had prophesied had happened.

The Canadian government—and no one could blame or criticize them—had negotiated, and were still negotiating, commercial treaties with foreign countries which they would have made with Great Britain if she had been ready to grasp the outstretched hands. It would be deplorable, he said, if the next imperial conference should be allowed to pass without anything being done in that connection.

In Memory of Laura Secord

St. Catharines, Ont.—The statue in memory of Laura Secord, the heroine of Queenston Heights, is now completed and in position on the heights ready for unveiling. It bears the following inscription:

"This monument has been erected by the government of Canada to Laura Ingersoll Secord, who saved her husband's life in the battle on these heights, Oct. 13, 1812, and who, risking her own life in carrying to Captain Fitzbort the information by which he won the victory of Beaver Dam, July 24, 1813."

AUSTRALIA LOSES JAMES TAIT

Has Resigned Chairmanship of the Victorian Railway Commission

Melbourne, Australia.—The retirement of Thomas James Tait, the chairman of the Victorian railway commission, has taken place under remarkable circumstances. Mr. Tait came here seven years ago from Canada. He had been the manager of transportation for the Canadian Pacific, and took over a similar position in this state. He started in to make many reforms in the administration, and as a result the system was put on a paying basis for the first time. Under his management the surplus last year reached the million dollar mark. During the present year Mr. Tait's good fortune did not continue. Accidents were numerous on the line, lives were lost, and much property destroyed. Unrest in the ranks of the workers displayed itself, and in addition the Labor party to the state launched venomous attacks against Mr. Tait's management. One section of the press aided the agitation by making grossly unfair charges, and matters came to a head recently when, before adjournment, the house of assembly made an opportunity for a discussion re holding an official inquiry into the cause of numerous accidents on the system. The premier, before the debate had proceeded far, rose and announced that Mr. Tait, for family reasons, had decided to relinquish his post under the government. The engagement would have, in any event, terminated shortly, but Mr. Tait was anxious to be released at the beginning of December.

The leader of the government and his supporters eulogized the work of Mr. Tait in the state and referred to him as a first-class railway manager. It is understood he will return to Canada, and the press credits Sir Thos. Shaughnessy with the statement of "Tait should never have left us; there is a chair waiting for him."

Mr. Tait is expected to return to Canada about Christmas.

He was born in Melbourne, Que., on July 24, 1864, and is the son of Sir Melbourne Tait, chief justice of the superior court for the province of Quebec.

WORK ON ALBERTA IRRIGATION

Six Hundred Men with 400 Teams Are Busily at Work on the Big Ditch

Gleichen.—With 48 miles of the enormous canal that is to irrigate land from Lake McGregor in the Snake Valley to the Bow river near the Blackfoot reserve, already constructed it is expected that the 46,000 acres of land that the Southern Alberta Land company hold in this district will be placed on the market next year.

This irrigation ditch which will allow for the constant flow of ten feet of water will cost somewhere in the vicinity of $4,000,000. Three years have already been spent on the work but it is considered sufficiently well advanced now to open up the lands next year. The work has rendered a service to those homesteaders who have found the past season a trying one, for it has provided almost a surfeit of employment. No less than 400 teams are busy at the present time under the direction of the contractor, Mr. D. F. McArthur, and this represents over 600 men.

The total length of the ditch when completed will be about 150 miles, but, even then, it is not the largest one in Alberta.

What with this ditch and the railroad, the Southern Alberta line from Medicine Hat to Calgary a wealthy future is assured for this district.

ELECTIONS WILL BE POSTPONED

The Present Term Is Up, but the New Act Will Change Conditions

Edmonton.—The first senate of the University of Alberta, elected when the university was established over a year ago, will automatically go out of office on Tuesday, October 11, according to the regulations under which they were elected.

It is probable, however, that the senate will continue to hold office, until after the passing of the new university act, which is to come before the next session of the legislature in November, and which will require the election of a new senate. The question of an election will be discussed at a meeting of the senate to be held before the end of the month.

It is not deemed advisable that there should be an election at any rate under the new act, which will provide for an increased number of senators, and possibly for representation of the farmers' associations.

Says Canadians Laugh at Free Trade

Bristol.—Norton Griffiths, M.P., who arrived here recently on the Royal Edward, said: "To the idea that there is any important section in Canada pressing for free trade, I can give the lie direct. Canada would laugh such a notion to scorn."

Griffiths will urge the formation of imperial leagues to make it possible for Canada to come to those who are unable to seek information for themselves. The Royal Edward broke all her previous records on this passage.

Suit Against C. P. R.

Winnipeg.—George Doctoroff, a farmer of Kildonan, has entered suit against the Canadian Pacific railway for $2,320 for sheds, hay, harness and implements which were destroyed last October by sparks from an engine running on the Stonewall branch of the railway.

ARE WELL SATISFIED

ANOTHER LIE UTTERED BY OUR ENEMIES IS REFUTED

Messrs. Denhart, Giese and Berger Deny Statements Attributed to Them in Seattle—They Will Take Steps to Have Seattle Papers Publish Truth in the Matter, as Statements Are Absolutely Untrue.

Calgary.—Denying that they were ever dissatisfied with conditions in Alberta or Canada, or that they ever said they were, and characterizing a report printed in one of the Seattle papers during the "Why go to Canada" campaign of the American press saying that they were dissatisfied, as absolutely untrue in every particular, Messrs. Paul Denhart, Giese and Berger, of Brooks, were in the city recently and expressed great dissatisfaction with the report, and asking that as much publicity as possible be given to their denial.

"I am sorry that these reports have been circulated in Seattle," said Mr. Denhart. "As far as I am personally concerned, the statement that I am dissatisfied with Alberta is absolutely untrue. I have never authorized anyone to quote me in such a manner, and I am more than satisfied with my present conditions. My flax, even after all this dry weather, is fine, and my oats are in splendid condition. In fact, I intend to do some more plowing as soon as I am able, and to put in much larger crops."

Mr. Giese also expressed much dissatisfaction with the false statements credited to him. "As far as land in Alberta is concerned, I cannot praise it too highly," he said, "both for the quality of its soil and its crops. I have gone over Alberta thoroughly and have seen wheat that would thresh for from twenty to forty-five bushels per acre."

Mr. Berger also agreed with this statement, and said that the agricultural outlook in Alberta seemed as bright as that in any country he had ever seen. "If I could get six more sections of land at the same price as I paid for those that I at present hold, I would be glad to have them," he said, "and when I say that I mean it. That hardly looks as if I am dissatisfied with the country and doing my best to get out."

Although the offending articles were published some little time ago, they have just been brought to the attention of the men who are credited with them, and they are taking steps to have them denied in Seattle, as well as getting the denial as much publicity as possible in other places.

"There is a limit to all things," said Mr. Denman, "and in this case it has been reached right here. I am sorry we did not see the reports earlier so that they might not have been given such a start."

STRIKERS TO BE REINSTATED

Minister of Railways Takes Matter Up With President Hays of the G. T. P.

Ottawa.—It is understood that as a result of a conference held here between President C. M. Hays and Hon. Geo. P. Graham, minister of railways, the majority of the employees of the Grand Trunk, who lost their positions on account of the strike, will be taken back by the company.

Mr. Graham drew Mr. Hays' attention to complaints which have been made by the men and their representatives to him that the company was not living up to the terms of its agreement, as far as the taking back of employees was concerned.

Mr. Hays pointed out that the company did not agree to take back all the strikers, barring those guilty of violence, until the expiration of ninety days. Only two-thirds of this period had expired, and he explained that by the time the remaining thirty days had elapsed, the terms of the agreement would be complied with.

INNISFAIL AGENT WINS PRIZE

Prize of $50 Awarded for Most Attractive Station Gardens and Grounds

Calgary.—The competition by agents and section foremen of the Canadian Pacific railway for the most attractive looking station gardens and grounds has been won on the Alberta division by Mr. W. Nickells, agent at Innisfail, who receives the prize of $50. The agents receiving prizes of $10 for the best kept grounds on the respective districts are Mr. R. A. Johnson, agent at Cochrane; Mr. M. C. Carey, agent at Langdon, and Mr. R. Reading, agent at Fernie.

The prize competition for the best photograph of a flower garden at a station has not yet been closed, and competitors should send in their prints and negatives as quickly as possible to Mr. N. S. Dunlop, floral department, Montreal. This competition is open to all employees, as well as professional and amateur photographers.

Mr. Whyte Estimates Crop Yield

Winnipeg.—Wm. Whyte, vice-president of the C. P. R., gave this statement recently when asked for an estimate on the wheat yield of the West for 1910.

"Based on threshing reports to date, this company places an estimate on the Western wheat crop for this harvest of 94,700,000 bushels."

A further and more detailed estimate will be forthcoming from the company.

TROCHU NEWS

From the Trochu Times

FAREWELL SERMON

Mr J R Craig preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening September 25, to a very large congregation at the Trochu Presbyterian Church. During the course of his sermon Mr Craig slightly admonished those individuals whose attendance at church inclined to be irregular. The reverend gentleman stated that when he approached these individuals in regard to their negligence in religious matters they invariably replied that they were sorry they had not attended church last Sunday but they had arranged to go to Pine Lake, or else they had promised to go for a ride, or a drive with somebody. Oftentimes, when passing by the hotel on Sunday evenings he had observed those same individuals playing cards. He earnestly advised all those who professed to believe in the Christian faith to hold fast to their religious beliefs and not allow themselves to be influenced by a certain modern school of so called rationalists.

At the conclusion of his sermon Mr Craig stated that during his short stay in the Trochu district he had made some enemies, but he had, on the eve of his departure, no apologies to offer them. He had also, however, made a large number of friends and it was to them that he wished to express his sincere thanks for the many kindnesses which they had rendered to him. It was not without regret that he took his departure from the Trochu district. He carried with him many pleasant memories.

THE FALL FAIR

Trochu seems to have been unfortunate in the days selected for the more important public events this year. Our sports day was greatly marred by the inclement weather and September 21, the day of our first fall fair, left much to be desired in that direction. The day was bitterly cold and heavy, grey clouds hung over in a threatening manner. The consequence was that the number of people attending the fair was small and, as result, the entries were not so numerous as they should have been.

The stock shown was of a very good quality and the fine arts and vegetable display was worthy of high commendation. Altogether the arrangements for the fair were very complete and had the weather been fine and warm we should certainly have had a very excellent fair.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY
President of the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

To be the guiding spirit of a great railway company, with a firm hand on the lever of a thousand phases of the work, requires long, practical, thorough experience, splendid executive ability in choosing and handling men, and a quick mind to decide vital issues on the moment if need be. Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy has these essentials and more; he is a tireless worker, a man of energy and enthusiasm, a keen common sense that cuts Gordian knots of difficulty with ease, and a prodigious memory that is always ready on the instant.

He was born in Milwaukee, Wis., of Irish parentage in 1833, and after taking the usual course in the public schools had a little supplementary smoothing down and polishing in a business college, and was then ready at sixteen to begin the battle of life. He entered the kindergarten of railroading in his first position in the purchasing department of the Milwaukee and St. Paul road, and it was not long before it was recognized that he had a good business head firmly set on his broad shoulders; and with constant purpose and undaunted determination he worked his way, never looking at the clock nor stinting his efforts, until in 1879, at the age of twenty-six, he was general store-keeper of the road.

In 1882, Sir William Van Horne, another alumnus of this railroad which was a splendid college of training and experience, resigned from the Milwaukee and St. Paul to assume the management of the Canadian Pacific. He had been keeping close tally on Mr. Shaughnessy's work; he realized his possibilities and was confident that the young man was broad-gauge enough to be equal to larger opportunities, and took him to Canada as general purchasing agent. Two years later he won, by his ability, the post of assistant general manager, later becoming assistant to the President and in 1891 was made Vice-President and elected a director, and in 1898 when Sir William Van Horne retired from the presidency, the opportunity of his life, the climax of the rosiest dreams of his ambition came to Mr. Shaughnessy when he was made President—the kindly autocrat of the Canadian Pacific.

In October, 1901, his old folks at home in Milwaukee were roused from sleep one night by a messenger with a telegram. In trembling fear his father opened the envelope and with wonder and delight read aloud these words from one of the great railway kings of the western hemisphere: "You may be gratified to know that His Majesty has conferred on me the honor of knighthood. One owes a great deal to a good father and mother. T. G. Shaughnessy."
